Summary of reasons for decision:

The computer moving image file promotes and supports the exploitation of children for sexual purposes, sexual violence against children, and the infliction of extreme cruelty. It is a recording of an infant child being sexually and physically abused by an woman. It presents children as available for sexual activity, and subjecting them to physical cruelty as sexually arousing. The classification of this publication interferes with the freedom of expression that is set out in section 14 of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. This outcome is consistent, however, with Parliament's intention that publications falling under s3(2) of the FVPC Act are deemed to be objectionable. The classification is also a reasonable limitation that reflects the concern of a free and democratic society to protect children from exploitation and harm.
